ADS SUMMARY :

Meta and Google Ad Performance

In October 2025, Paul John Caffeine India recorded its strongest digital performance to date, driven by steady improvements across both Google and Meta platforms.

Google Ads led performance with ₹81,080 spent and ₹1.01 lakh in revenue, achieving a cost-per-conversion of around ₹510 and a 27% revenue lift month-on-month, supported by efficient remarketing and P-Max campaigns that reduced CPC by 6%.

Together, the two channels created a balanced funnel where Meta built brand reach and engagement, while Google efficiently converted intent into sales.

Overall, October marked a clear step forward in both visibility and profitability, setting a strong foundation for sustained growth heading into the next quarter.

Amazon

We recorded a notable growth in performance on Amazon, with revenue reaching ₹1,29,241, marking a 31% increase from September's ₹98,802.

The brand saw a consistent rise in demand, achieving 249 orders and 259 items sold, reflecting a 30–31% growth and strong consumer purchase intent across listings.

From a channel perspective, 45% of total orders came organically, generating ₹56,055 in revenue, while 55% originated from Amazon Ads, accounting for ₹73,186.

This balanced performance between organic and paid channels indicates sustained brand visibility, growing customer trust, and well-optimized ad campaigns, driving consistent month-on-month growth.

Insights

There is a significant month-on-month growth and improved efficiency.

Clicks: 9,938 (+34%) → strong audience engagement increase.
Avg. CPC: ₹8.23 (↓ 6%) → cheaper traffic acquisition.
Orders: 138 (+42%) → conversion performance improving.
Items Sold: 191 (+47%) → higher order value/volume.
Revenue: ₹101,358 (+27% MoM) → steady growth trend (up from ₹79,847 in Sept).
Ad Spend: ₹81,080 → ROI increasing; cost per conversion improved to ₹510 (avg).

October delivered record-high revenue since April, driven by stronger remarketing and Pmax bundle campaigns. Lower CPC and improved conversion efficiency indicate better targeting and optimization.

Facebook

In October, the Facebook page reached 393.9K people and generated 3.4M views. Content interactions were at 467, with a total watch time of 3 hours 5 minutes. While overall reach decreased this month, there was a notable 163.4% increase in 3-second views, indicating stronger initial engagement with the content. Organic reach remained comparatively low, with most visibility continuing to come from ads.

Instagram

- In October, the Instagram page reached 1.8 million users and generated 2 million views. Content interactions were at 1,600, indicating that the audience continued to engage despite a dip in overall performance this month. While both reach and views declined compared to the previous period, the account maintained a consistent baseline presence, providing a stable foundation to rebuild momentum and optimize upcoming campaigns.
